Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 18 and 20-22 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 18, line 12, the phrase "said wallet" lacks proper antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 18 is finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bullock in view of Robertson (6,516,950) or Bartell et al. (4,889,236; hereinafter Bartell'236). Bullock discloses a card (1) comprising a top, a bottom, a left side, a right side, a front side, a back side, a cavity (2) for holding oral medical pills and a cavity sealing mechanism (3). The cavity located on and extended outwardly from the top of the card. Bullock further discloses the card having a substantially rectangular shaped and the bottom comprises a thickness of the card.

To the extent that Bullock fails to show the bottom of the card comprises a thickness being equal to or less than a credit card thickness, Robertson teaches a credit card-sized carrier for holding a pill. Robertson also teaches that a credit card have a thickness of about 0.05 inches (column 3, lines 55-56). Bartell'236 shows a credit-card-sized blister-pack medication package (10) having a shape substantially similar to a credit card comprising a bottom having a thickness. The bottom of the card including an upper portion (100) with a thickness preferably about 0.0265 inches, a top surface (120) of the upper portion is coated with a clear layer having a thickness preferably about 0.00185 inches, a bottom surface (130) of the upper portion is coated with a clear layer having a thickness preferably about 0.0015 inches, a middle portion (200) having a thickness preferably about 0.0075 inches, a lower portion (400) having a thickness preferably about 0.002 inches and two heat seal layers (510, 520) with each layer having a thickness of about the same thickness of the lower portion (Figure 2 and column 2, line 41 to column 3, line 38). Therefore, the thickness of the bottom of the card is equal to $(.0265 + .00185 + .0015 + .0075 + .002 + 2*(.002)) = 0.04185$ inches which is less than a credit card thickness. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Robertson or Bartell'236 to modify the card of Bullock so the thickness of the bottom of the card is equal to or less than a credit card thickness to reduce the material and also to provide more convenience for the user to carry the card in the wallet and also because the substitution of one known element for another would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

Art Unit: 3728

5. Claims 20-22 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 18 above, and further in view of Collens (4,669,613) or Boone (4,870,764). The card of Bullock as modified further fails to show writing being located on the front of the card below the cavity. Bartell'236 further shows the card comprises writing (20) such as calendar and any other desired product identification information (column 2, lines 49-51). Collens shows a card (1, 2) having writing located on the front of the card below cavities (4-6, rotate the card of Figures 1-2 in 90 degrees clockwise). Boone teaches a card (1, 2) comprising a cavity (7, 15) and writing disposed on the front of the card below the cavity (see the Figure). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Bartell'236, Collens or Boone to modify the card of Bullock as modified so the card includes writing disposed on the front of the card and below the cavity to provide more convenient for the user.

Art Unit: 3728

As to claims 21 and 22, regarding the writing comprises an advertisement or instructions as taught by the prior art, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify the writing so it comprises an advertisement or instructions because it has been held that the printed matter merely taught a new use for an existing product and thus couldn't impart patentability. In re Ngai.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on 6/7/2007 and 7/9/2007 have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive.

Applicant's arguments with respect to the commercial success and the Declarations as to commercial success filed by Mr. John Higgins and Ms. Debbie Burrt on 6/7/2007 have been reviewed and they are not persuasive since both the arguments and the Declarations fail to establish a nexus between the claimed invention and the commercial success because there is no evidence that the product has been sold corresponds to the claimed invention. see MPEP 716.03.

In the Declaration of Mr. John Higgins indicates that "The packages disclosed by the cited references do not contain a separate bottom portion that is free of medical tablet containers" is noted. This is unpersuasive because the package of Bullock comprises a separate bottom portion that is free of medical tablet containers (see the Figure above). The only different between the package of Bullock and the claim 18 is the bottom comprises a thickness that is substantially equal to or less than a credit card thickness and such thickness has been disclosed by the prior art (see above) and since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
